Summer is budget season. The City of Galveston’s fiscal year runs from October 1 to September 30, and the Galveston City Council spends the summer working with staff to prepare a budget and determine priorities for the upcoming year.

The Proposed Budget, including maintenance and operating expenditures ($241.8 million) and the capital budget ($185.8 million), is $427.6 million. The Proposed Budget is based on the proposed tax rate of $0.408850 in order to support the FY 2024 maintenance and operations budget, and there are no changes in water and sanitary sewer rates proposed at this time.

The City is in great financial shape and has set programming goals that ensure ongoing service and infrastructure improvements throughout the City. This is due to strong management controls, sound financial planning, and strict adherence to a set of policies and principles that serve cities well.

The General Fund balance has increased from $16.88 million in FY 2015 to $25.2 million in FY 2023 despite a major legal settlement, COVID-19, and the resulting major downturn in worldwide economic conditions, as well as an energy downturn that caused the permanent loss of jobs in the region.

The majority of this increase can be attributed to sales tax collections during this recent growth period adding $2.4 million in FY 2021 and $3.7 million in FY 2022 with approximately 2 percent year over year increase in FY 2023 as well. Also, the City was reimbursed by the federal government for $1.56 million in Pandemic and hurricane preparedness costs previously expended.

The Galveston City Council meets throughout the summer to discuss the budget in public hearings, and the schedule for that can be found at galvestontx.gov/agendacenter. Budget documents are posted online at galvestontx.gov/financial-transparency so residents may easily access and educate themselves about the city budget.

Sincerely,
Brian Maxwell
